

■ Solvay and Metro join ELUPEG

ELUPEG is delighted to welcome Alain Baeyens, lead buyer of logistics services, Solvay, and David Antunes, Regional Officer Supply Chain & Operations Management, Metro Central East Europe GmbH, to the Steering Board and Advisory Committee. They are both active within ELUPEG and have kindly hosted a group meeting on their premises in Germany and Belgium. They have joined the group because they strongly believe in collaboration, and think it is very important to learn from other companies and share experiences through practical case studies – which is the mission and reason for ELUPEG. A wide network of experts and supply chain knowledge is also available through the group. As ELUPEG is a not-for-profit company, support from people such as Alain Baeyens and David Antunes is greatly appreciated.

ELUPEG was created in 2002 to promote collaboration and now has 1,000 members. CHEP, DHL Supply Chain and Proctor & Gamble have recently joined as Corporate Members, and Ambassadors include Kimberly Clark and LKW WALTER.
